Got Difficult Homework?
Try Live Homework Help Online!

Ever gotten stuck on a homework assignment?  Wished you had your own tutor to help you understand?  Never fear. Live Homework Help Online is here to rescue you!

Students (and parents) can get help in Math, Science, English, Social Studies and Writing. Just click on the Live Homework Help icon on our website (www.pbclibrary.org), enter your library card number, your grade level and the subject you need help in, then let the program match you with the right tutor. It’s that simple!

Here’s what students are saying:

“Explained everything I needed to know patiently and helpfully, 5/5 stars.”  -- 10th grade student

“I feel more confident. My tutor showed me new ways to look at things and solve them.” -- 5th grade student

“We went through the problems step by step and a light bulb went off in my head. Thank you so much!” -- 12th grade student

“When I tried this (mom’s idea), I was so relieved because the tutors on this site really know what they are doing.” -- 9th grade student

“This service helps me prepare for tests and helps me on my homework when I’m confused.  Thanks!” -- 8th grade student

Live one-on-one help is available
Sun – Thu, 3:00 pm to 9:00 pm and Sat, 2:00 pm to 7:00 pm.

Book Life Presents: Harper Lee, “To Kill a Mockingbird” and “Go Set a Watchmen”
While it is important to look back at Jim Crowism, hatred, lies and racism, it is even more important to view fear, whether the fear rises from ignorance, history, from a perspective of voice or silence. Atticus, of course, is the quintessential “voice.” Harper Lee may illustrate both sides as she spoke out in “To Kill a Mockingbird,” and then rarely publicly spoke or wrote again. Her new novel, “Go Set a Watchman,” may add to the silence or open new voices; even her own. Join us for this lecture by Dr. John Childrey from Florida Atlantic University. (60 min.) Preregister.
