GENEALOGY: DISCOVER YOUR ROOTS

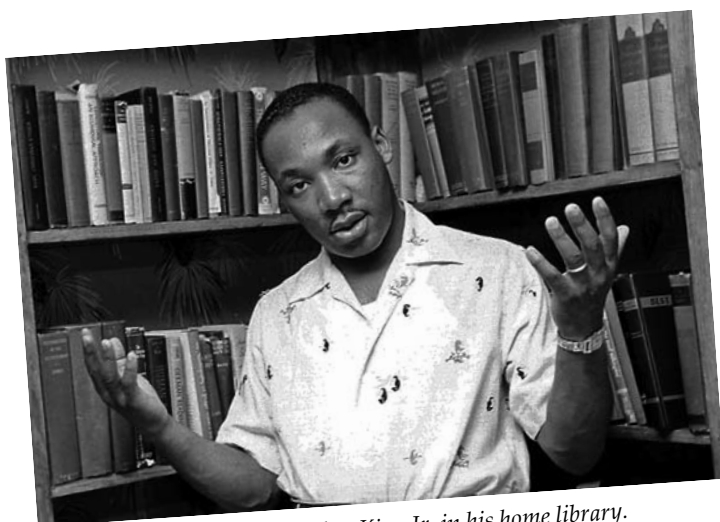

It is a new year, which presents us with an opportunity to contemplate the future and reflect on the past. Some studies indicate that nearly 60 percent of Americans have an interest in tracing their family backgrounds, and many are using online genealogy resources. Some are paying to use Ancestry.com, but library cardholders in Palm Beach County do not need to pay to use this well-known service! Local genealogists can take advantage of Ancestry Library Edition with their library card. Use this service to find information in millions of sources and online images, including immigration, emigration, passport, and naturalization records, military records, census lists, and documents such as court, land, tax, and probate records. Templates for charts and forms assist users with research and record keeping.

Another online library service, Heritage Quest, also offers census records from 1790 through 1930. In addition, users can dive into valuable archival information from family histories, local histories, and other books, or use the Periodical Source Index (PERSI), to research genealogy and local history periodicals tracing back to 1800. Other Heritage Quest resources include Revolutionary War records with original images covering nearly 80,000 military officers and enlisted men from the Revolutionary War era. Freedman's Bank Records assist in tracing African American ancestors prior to and immediately after the Civil War. Finally, the LexisNexis U.S. Serial Set offers records of memorials, petitions, and private relief actions made to the U.S. Congress back to 1789. Researchers seeking more recent family information can turn to America's Obituaries and Death Notices for death records from around the country, over the last several decades. This resource collects nearly 90 percent of the death records that appear in newspapers nationwide, offering valuable background information.

Users can explore the languages of their ancestors by using the library's online language-learning program Transparent Language Online/BYKI. This service offers instruction on over 80 foreign languages, and includes instructional courses, interactive games, proficiency tests, and other processes to make language instruction both successful and enjoyable.

Users researching Florida history can utilize the digital collection of Sanborn Maps, which offers large-scale, historic maps of nearly 150 Florida towns and cities dating back to the late 19th Century. This collection provides background information for genealogists, local historians, and urban planners about the history, growth, and development of Florida cities, towns, and neighborhoods.

Your library card is your key to these valuable tools for genealogy! Take advantage of the convenient access from your home or office, at <http://www.pbclibrary.org/databases>.
